

The image features a stylized representation of the Hungarian flag (red, white, and green horizontal stripes) with a grey brushstroke effect. The flag is set against a background of concentric circles and a large grey crescent shape on the left side.

A Historical look to Understand Hungarian Higher Education

University Of Debrecen
Jennyfer Casas, PhD Student
Research in Education
May 27th-28th,2021.

Introduction

This report will be an exploration of the internationalization process of higher education in a central European country: Hungary. The importance of this study is based on the notion that it is necessary to understand historical background and processes of transition to be able to comprehend the current situation of Hungarian universities and its integration in a current globalized era of education. Its universities are positioning themselves into the atmosphere of being internationalized. The exploration will consider timely events as well as the role of organizations in education matching the historical moments that has led to become the education system of today characterized by openness to the world including students from abroad to be part of the Hungarian higher education system.

First World

Second World

Thlrd World

Geographical Contextualization

Law 1868

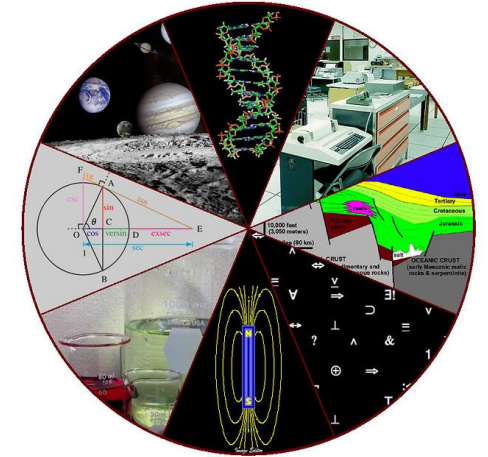

Education During the Communist Period

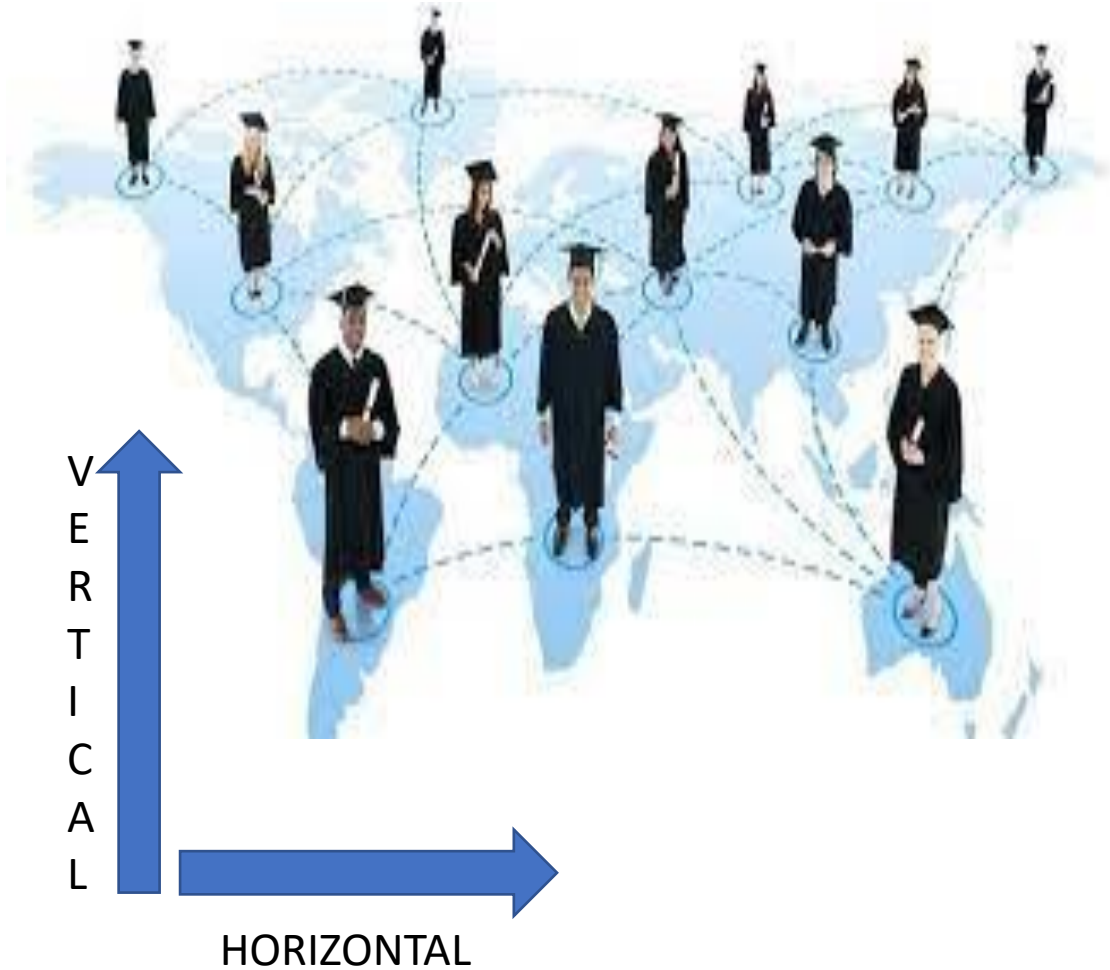

Transition from the Communist Period

Disadvantages

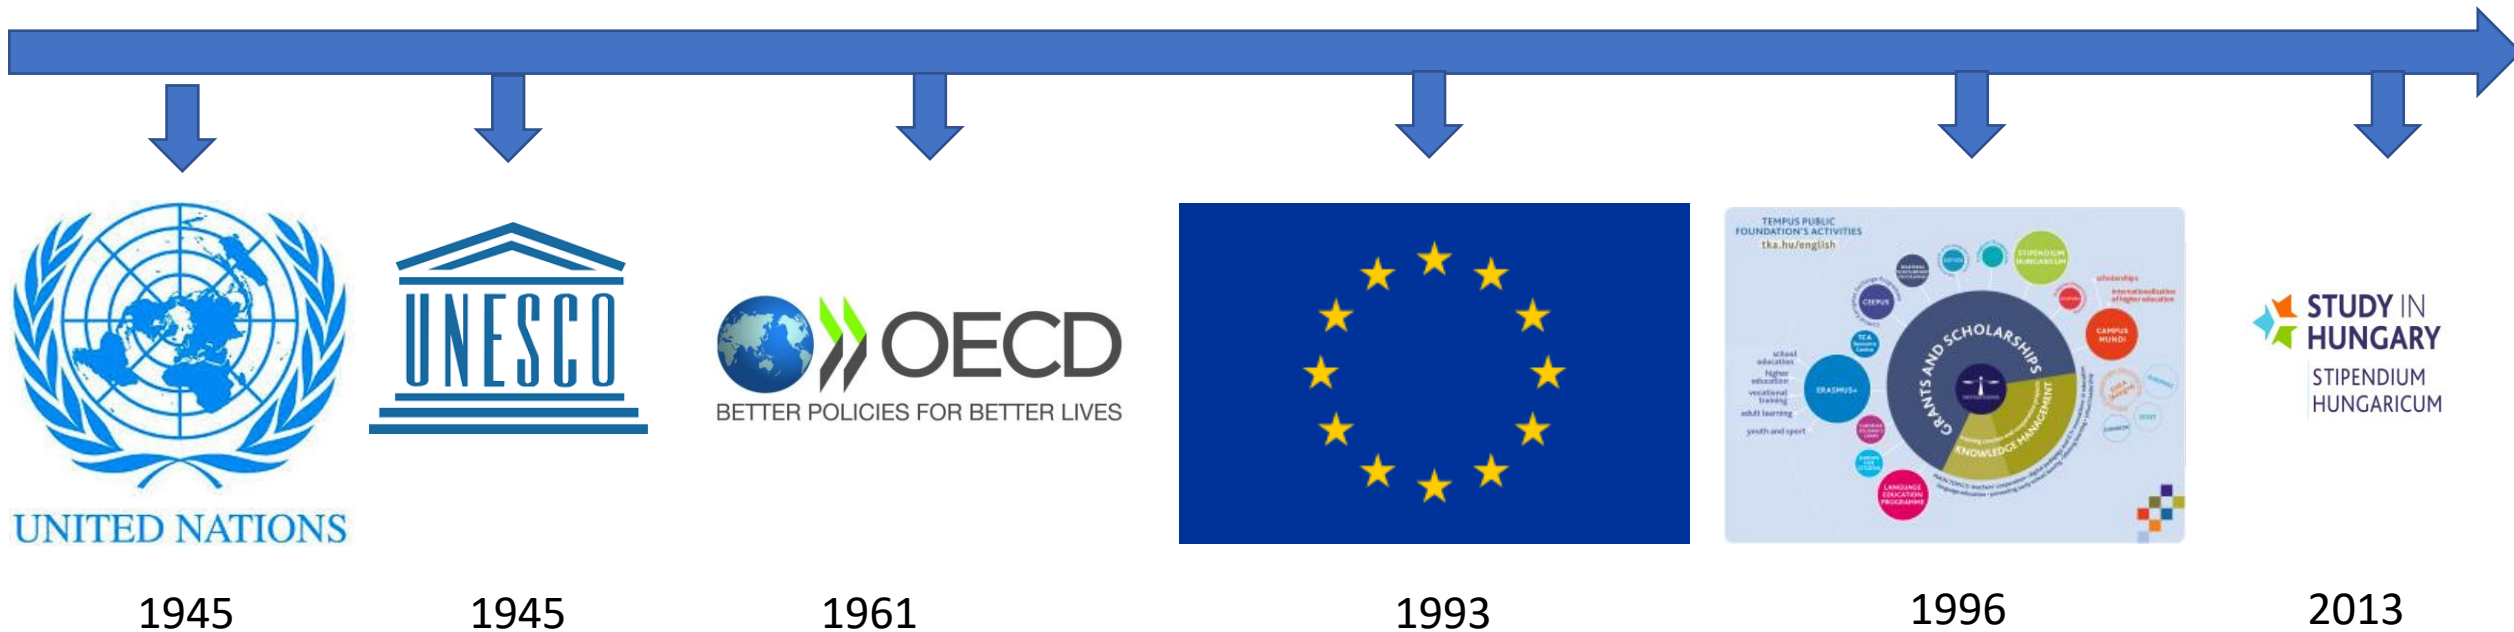

Academic Mobility in Central and Eastern Europe

Internationalization of Higher Education in Hungary

Organizations Involved

Conclusions

- Knowing the historical aspects contributes to understand the context of international education in Hungary.
- Processes of internationalization in Hungary have gradually increased since the end of communism.
- Hungary is experiencing bilateral relations with many countries, offering its education and opening the doors to include multiple nationalities becoming an emerging study destination.